

Dr Xavier to Lecture at Two Medical Conferences – September 2017

Dr Xavier has been asked to present a lecture on “Managing Peels Complications” at the inaugural conference of “The International Association for Prevention of Complications in Aesthetic Medicine” (IAPCAM) and at the annual conference of “The British College of Aesthetic Medicine” (BCAM).

IAPCAM is a non-profit organisation, working with international doctors, all specialist in aesthetic medicine on a consensus for the management and prevention of complications.

BCAM is a professional body representing hundreds of UK medical doctors who practice aesthetic medicine.

Dr Xavier will lecture at both conferences in September 2017 and his being asked to do so is recognition by his peers of his experience in peels over the last 11 years at his award-winning full time clinic “Dr Xavier G Medi-Spa Clinic” in Southampton.

Dr Xavier has a great passion for skin peels and he has trained hundreds of medical practitioners over the last decade in superficial to deep-medium peels at his trainings and conferences around the UK and in Europe. He also performs deep (phenol) peels at his clinic having been trained by world-renowned Dr Philippe Deprez in Barcelona and Dr Jean-Luc H. Vigneron in Nice, France.

Dr Xavier is a former Committee Member at BCAM and has lectures at a number of BCAM and other industry medical conferences in not just peels but also injectable and advanced cosmetic treatments.

For more information please call Dr Xavier’s office on 023 80 637 638.

Dr Xavier also lectured at last year’s BCAM conference and here he is on the panel taking questions from the audience.
